SAM.

"Seemed like about the roughest, toughest job I ever had
Was a payin' for a license to get married," said my dad.
"After that hit weren't so tryin', for I'd call upon Elviry.
When my calculations stumbled, and the road
of life got mired;
So hit weren't so very long before we had five hundred dollar—
Lord, weren't I proud! Says I to her, 'a thousand and a sure to follow!'"

"The thousand came. Says I, 'By jing! for fear we got in trouble, We'll rustle 'ad we'll rustle, tel our bank account is double.'
And so we buckled to agin from airy morn tel night.
Until we had it salted down where intrus was all right.
But then Elviry she got skeered, and low'd we hadn't a cent.
"To live and raise the children up," said she,
"will still be tough."

"Down to it then we got once more, and slaved and pinched and saved,
But seemed to me the more we made, the more we allus craved.
And when it come to spendin' here and there
an extra dime,
We never could say yes, though workin' harder
all the time.
Then Elviry, she grew feeble with the rheumatiz and agin.
While I was laid up half the time with phthisic and lumbager."

"And so the children they took hold, and things went wus and wus.
They spent our money right and left, nor never cared a cuss;
Our workin' and our scrimpin' and our savin'
here and there
All went for dressin', fuss and fun, and no one seemed to care.
"Cep't Sam, our youngest son, but he soon racked off to the city.
The rest have scattered here and yon, with no one left to pity."

"And now we're old and feeble, it seems right
hard to tell,
That the poorhouse only's left us; but Elviry says, says she:
"Ef we had thought of others more, and less of savin' gold,
And I'd earned our boys to love us, as we both on us got old,
We would not be left helpless here, with no
one round to care!"
And I guess Elviry's hit it 'bout ez close ez truth will bear."

"What's me and her a goin' to do? P'raps you're the one can tell.
What you young bucks think you don't know these days hain't much. Oh, well!
Hit ain't no reason you should laugh, kase two old folks is down—
Hey—how—you're Sam? Well, well, I swan!
So you've got rich in town.
Come to take keer of us? Lord, how Elviry'll cry for joy!"

Wal, Sam, 'twixt us, I allus thought I'd raised up one good boy."
—Bryone Perriman in Yankee Blade.

The Cost of Feasts in the Past.

In 1638 the opening of Inigo Jones' new theater was celebrated by an elaborate banquet, attended by the lords of the council, and the bill amounted to £84 5s. 4d., exclusive of wine. Glass and plate were hired, and some of the former was broken and had to be paid for. We have the details of three dinners in 1676. A leg of mutton costs 3s.
4d.; a sirloin of beef, 9s.; 3 chickens and 3 rabbits, 5s. 6d.; 8 artichokes, 1s., and 4 cauliflowers, 1s. 3d. For buttered ale, the ingredients of which were a hundred eggs, 8 gallons of ale, 2 pounds of butter, 8 pounds of sugar and 1 ounce of nutmegs, the charge was 10s. 11d.—Gentleman's Magazine.

Her Lovely Lettuce Dish.

"I want," she said hesitatingly, as she poised her basket in front of her pretty chain with a thoughtful air, "to get some lettuce."

"Yes in," said the marketman; "here's some, very nice it is too."

"Is it all that color?"

"Why-er-yes; all lettuce is green,
you know."

"Oh, of course; but it's too bad. I got a lovely blue dish to put lettuce in, but I'm sure green would look horrible in it.
I never thought about there not being any shades, you know."

And as she turned away the market man was almost sure he saw a tear of disappointment in her eye.—Washington Post.

Silk Raising in France.

During the first half of the present century silk raising in France was quite prosperous. In 1808 the production was 500,000 kilograms. It then increased steadily until 1819, when it was about 2,000,000 kilograms. In 1854 mulberry trees began to be attacked by a ravaging disease, which destroyed many plantations, and was merely the first of many reverses which have harassed and discouraged French silk growers. Since then the production has been subject to great fluctuations. In 1876 the low water mark for the century was reached, with an output of but 135,000 kilograms. During the last ten years the annual production has been from 600,000 to 800,000 kilograms.—Cor. Dry Goods Economist.

When Moses Day Walked.

Moses Day, of Boston, began life as a poor boy. When a young man he walked from Boston to Baltimore in search of work. Finding none he walked back again. He finally obtained employment in a ropewalk, which by diligence and inventive ability he transformed into one of the largest cordage factories in the country.—New York World.

The children of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Baker left for San Francisco last night to join their parents.

The Carson Tribune celebrated the eighteenth anniversary of its birth yesterday. It is a good local paper.

Rev. J. N. A. Williams arrived yesterday by private conveyance on his way to the M. E. Conference, at Susanville.

The Journal is indebted to President Stephen A. Jones for a copy of the Register of the Nevada State University for 1891 and 1892.

The Hawthorne Bulletin says: A big strike is reported in the Bulwer mine, Bodie. The report is that they have a 13-foot ledge of good ore.

The Silver State says Charles Bowling, who has kept store at Fort McDermitt for twenty-two years, has sold out to his nephew, C. N. Wallace.

Edward Williams, convicted of burglary, committed by robbing the residence of J. W. Harrington, was sentenced by Judge Cheney yesterday to six years in the State Prison.

Rev. E. W. Van Deventer leaves to-day for Quincy, whence he will go to Susanville to attend the M. E. Conference, which meets in that town next Wednesday, the 22d inst.

Mutton is scarce on the Comstock. The Enterprise says the local butchers have been out of sheep meat for a week, and it is believed the sheep men have formed a combine to create a scarcity in the market.

The statement of the Union Pacific, telegraphed from Boston, shows the gross earnings of the whole system for six months to have been $3,419,000, a decrease of $748,000; and the net earnings to be $1,127,000, a decrease of $300,000.

The Comstock mining companies disbursed $192,253 for wages in the month of June. What further evidence is required to prove the benefit of silver mining to Nevada; yet our paternal Administration does all in its power to discourage the industry.

The Stevens will contest is up for trial in the District Court. Elizabeth Stevens, sister of deceased, is the contestant, the deceased having willed his property to his wife. It is claimed by the contestant that Stevens was not of sound mind when he made the will.

Wages at the Breyfogle camp are $4 per day, and board $10 per week. Flour is $16 to $20 a barrel, sugar 20 cents per pound, bacon 20 cents, coffee 35 cents, potatoes 4 cents, beans 12½ cents, beef 10 cents, hay $30 a ton. Two large ranches in the Fabrump Valley supply grain, fruit and vegetables in large quantities.

The Carson Appeal says Emma Johnson, formerly an inmate of the Orphans' Home, had some trouble with her mother and in a fit of anger struck her on the wrist with a hatchet, inflicting a deep wound which required five stitches to close it. The girl's step-father, Mr. Hansen, swore out a warrant for the arrest of the girl, but she could not be found.

Red Men's Grand Council.

The Grand Council of the Improved Order of Red Men of Nevada will convene at their hall at 1 o'clock p. m. to-day. The regular routine business will occupy the afternoon. In the evening the Great Chiefs and the members, with their wives, daughters and friends will attend the installation of officers, after which there will be a banquet at the Golden Eagle Hotel. The members and their invited guests will then return to the hall, and the remainder of the evening will be devoted to a literary and musical entertainment and dancing.

The Horn Case.

The case of the State vs. Thomas C. Horn was argued yesterday by District Attorney Julian and Hon. William Woodburn for the State, and J. L. Wines and J. W. Dorsey for the defendant. The case was submitted to the jury at 5 o'clock last evening, but at a late hour last night the jury had not agreed, and according to report, would not agree.

REV. C. H. SPURGEON.

The Great Preacher Dying.

A dispatch from London dated July 15th says Rev. Charles H. Spurgeon is steadily growing weaker, and his physicians any there is no hope of his recovery.

Charles Haddon Spurgeon was born in Kevedon Essex, England, June 19th, 1834. In the whole history of the non-conformist movement in that country there is no man who has occupied a more prominent position. He came from a family of clergymen, his father and grandfather both being preachers of the Independent denomination. When sixteen years old he became teacher in a school at Newmarket, which town, by the way, is in two counties, the north side in Suffolk, and the south side in Cambridgeshire. Afterwards he was attached to a school in Cambridge. While there he joined an association of lay preachers, and at the early age of eighteen he was pastor of a Baptist congregation at Waterbeach. His preaching attracted attention, and a year later he received a call to the New Park Street Baptist Chapel in Southwark, London.

So great were the crowds who flocked to hear him that the congregation were obliged to find larger accommodation. In Newington Butts a chapel was erected for his congregation capable of seating six thousand. Mr. Spurgeon has a personal magnetism in preaching that is marvellous. Each hearer is impressed with the idea that he alone is addressed, which accounts for his extraordinary popularity. He has received upwards of 20,000 persons into his church, and about forty chapels have been erected in London by his followers, the ministers of which have graduated from a college founded by himself. His energy and activity are boundless, and some twenty volumes of his sermons have been published. Among his works are "Gems," a volume containing brilliant passages from his discourses. "The Saint and His Savior," "John Ploughman's Talk," or "Plain Advice for Plain People," "Fenters for Arrows," "Lectures to My Students." He is also the editor of a journal, "The Sword and Trowel." Mr. Spurgeon has a fine expressive countenance which is full of earnestness. His sermons are listened to attentively by members of all religious denominations.

A TAXPAYER'S COMMENTS.

Does the Grand Jury Owe an Apology to County Officials?

Veadi, July 14, 1891.

ED. STATE JOURNAL.—Grant me the privilege of asking, through the columns of your paper, a few questions of those who may know how to answer: What has become of the promised reforms and correction of abuses made by the Grand Jury which was impeached last January? At the present writing, I have not a copy of the report before me, but if my memory serves me correctly, upon reading that report I said to myself, "ah, we have the right men on the Grand Jury this time, and their deliberations must certainly result in great good to the taxpayers of old Washoe."

If I remember correctly, the latter part of that report was virtually a series of charges, presentments and semi-indictments. There were also several committees appointed by that Grand Jury of whom I expected much, as I have been personally acquainted with many of the gentlemen for the last quarter of a century, and I had every reason to believe that, under the solemnity of their oaths, they would have proved themselves staunch and true friends to every interest of the county, which has issued its first "promises" to pay for current expenses at some future day. But, alas, this is the seventh month since that Grand Jury met, and not a leaf has stirred, not a whisper has gone abroad.

Gentlemen of the Grand Jury, is it possible that the charges you made against the Commissioners, in being in collusion with contractors in bridges, road work, etc., whereby the taxpayers were defrauded out of thousands of dollars, is false? If so, why not apologize to those gentlemen, and give the people to understand that everything is lovely and the goose is at an immensity of altitude in Washoe county? Will some one of you gentlemen, who were on that Grand Jury, and I know you are all gentlemen, arise and explain the discrepancies between the words of that report and the actions of the jury? What's the matter with H. H. Beck, my thirty-year friend? He was on that Grand Jury, and is it possible that he made a mistake, or has he fallen down? If I had seen it in big letters on the street corner that the devil had offered Beck the earth to "fall down" while he was under oath, I would not believe it, knowing him as I do. Beck! Beck! is it possible you have taken the left-hand road? How could you do it! You, who command the highest respect as a citizen and neighbor; you, who has been the poor man's friend and the watch-dog of the Treasury of Washoe county for the last twenty-five years; you, who has been the people's friend in every case of necessity that occurred, and devoted your time, talent and purse to the cause of justice! You know not how it grieves me to think you have gone with the goats to feed on pastures green in the little parks. Now who will look out for the wolves. There is no one left to protect the sheep, save the safety committee, and not one of them on duty.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Govt. Report.

ABSOLUTELY PURE

Now, it seems to me, that in justice to all concerned, the officials as well as the taxpayers, that that Grand Jury, collectively or individually, should, through the newspapers, explain the cause of the great discrepancies between the charges and their acts.

An Editor on the War Path

The Elko Independent says: "The editor of the People's Advocate of Austin is on the war path because some persons without the fear of God before their eyes, shaved the hair off the manes and tails of a band of horses belonging to him and Mrs. Birehim. He has his war paint on, and offers a reward of $100 for evidence to convict the guilty parties. We hope that he will succeed in catching and punishing them as they deserve."

Come Here, Neighbor.

The Belmont Courier says Ernst & Essors' farm, at Pine Creek, is one of the finest in the State. There are one hundred acres of wheat and barley and one hundred acres of clover and timothy on the place. The Courier reporter has evidently not been away from Belmont for years or he would not speak so boastfully of a farm of that size. Take a run to Washoe, Mr. Courier, and take a look at Joe Marzen's and other ranches in Humboldt as you are on the way.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh That Contain Mercury.

As mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is tenfold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury and is taken internally, and acts directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally, and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co.

Sold by druggists, price 75c per bottle.

The facilities of the present day for the production of everything that will conduce to the material welfare and comfort of mankind are almost unlimited and when Syrup of Figs was first produced the world was enriched with the only remedy which is truly pleasing and refreshing to the taste and prompt and effectual to cleanse the system gently in the Spring time or, in fact, at any time and the better it is known the more popular it becomes.

For Over Fifty Years

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup has been used by millions of mothers for their children while teething. It disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of cutting teeth, send at once and get a bottle of "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup" for children teething. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures Diarrhea, regulates the Stomach, and Bowels, cures Wind Colic, softens the Gums, reduces inflammation, and gives Tone and Energy to the whole system. "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup" for children teething is pleasant to the taste and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States. Price twenty-five cents a bottle. Sold by all druggists throughout the world. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup."

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

HER GIFT IS PATIENCE.

BELLA, THE WOMAN IN CHARGE OF A LADIES' WAITING ROOM.

Her Post is in the Grand Central Station, and She Sees Hundreds of Busy, Frantic, Rushing Women Every Day. Despite All the Haste She Is Calm.

The presiding genius of the ladies' waiting room at the New York Central station at Forty-second street is named Bella. It is to be presumed she has also a family name, but no one knows what it is. In fact no one cares. For thirteen years she has been the friend and assistant of almost every child and woman living between New York and Poughkeepsie who travels on the railroad. She is a tall, slight woman, with a pleasant manner and kindly face, though how she can remain so placid, answering so calmly the thousand and one questions addressed her in rapid succession, is a puzzle.

In the first place, most of the out of town shoppers have all their purchases sent to the waiting room, to be called for at train time. These bundles are put away in a big closet, piled from floor to ceiling with packages containing every conceivable thing, from spring bonnets to cream puffs. From 8 to 5 is the time to watch reunions between the women and their belongings. Shopping is over and every one is hurrying home. Half a dozen tired women and girls will charge into the waiting room at once, hastily inquire, "Where are my things, Bella?" and begin to arrange their bangs. By the time the hasty toilet is finished their dust coats and parcels are on the big table, and the umbrella and overshoes are on a chair in the corner. Every parcel has had the knots seen to, lest they fall open in the train, and soft or carelessly wrapped articles have an additional heavy paper about them. These are all handed over with a pleasant smile and just the slightest possible forward motion of one hand for the ten cent fee, which is dropped into a capacious bag in the closet.

SOME PECULIAR CHARGES.

Ladies coming in for a day's shopping usually stop in a moment to get rid of heavy veils and dust coats or to wipe the cinders from their faces. Lots of them keep their own combs and towels here, and repair damages as calmly as if at home. Bella gives them a little critical glance, and perhaps makes a suggestion. Then off they go, leaving things scattered about—soap, comb and train gloves—all of which will be found in their own particular corners when wanted.

There is one lady from Yonkers who is deaf and afflicted with an unquiet spirit. She would not trust her comb out of her sight for worlds; her soap she dries and puts back in her pocket. I saw her the other afternoon run back four times to see if a parcel left in Bella's care had been safely marked and hidden. Another kind of crank never knows when the train goes, neither will believe when Bella tells her, but always insists on that long suffering woman hunting up a time table and proving her statement.

In striking contrast is the good natured, easy going woman, who saunters in, asks "When does the next train go, Bella?" and calmly reads a novel till the bell rings. This is the woman who leaves her small girl here while she pays calls. The small girls enjoy being left, and tell wonderful stories of her adventures all the way home.

I sat for an hour in the room one day and saw a canary and two children left or called for, a school girl thankfully recover a lost exercise book, four men plunge in under the impression that it was the entrance to the elevated railroad. Cyrus Field hammer fiercely on the door and inquire if the feminine portion of his family had gone on, a marvelous number of hairpins replaced and an almost endless stream of bundles handed in by errand boys.

"HER LADIES."

A nice old lady with curls gravely consulted everybody in the room about the weather and finally decided not to visit some country friends till the next day, as it looked like rain, and went home, leaving her satchel behind so as not to have the bother of carrying it back again. After her came a couple of girls who had evidently never been there before, for one set the other to keep a sharp eye on her bundles while she made a voyage to the ticket office, and then performed a like kindly office while her friend visited the news stand. Then they had their shawl straps tightened and kept Bella busy for quite five minutes attending to their wants, and departed without thinking it necessary to fee the patient attendant. As she remarked pathetically, "All that travels ain't ladies."

Bearing this latter fact in mind, Bella stands guard over half the basins and toilet arrangements generally, reserving them for "her ladies," as she calls the regular travelers. The ordinary public—people she does not include in her flock—may not venture to remove the stains of travel in these holy bowls, nor arrange their bangs at that special glass.

A complaint was made not very long ago by some one not of the elect at this exclusiveness, but Bella appeared before the authorities and defended her cause so well that she won triumphantly, and to this day the regular travelers have their own little privileges that are cheap at the cost of a daily dime and pleasant greeting.—New York Recorder.

One of Colonel Ingersoll's Stories.

They tell a story of Mr. Jones, of Chicago, who visited Rome and while there was shown some of the great marble masterpieces of the world, among others the Apollo Belvedere. They pointed it out to her as being the most perfect form of man that had ever been conceived by the brain of an artist, and the old woman walked all around it, looked at it from every point of view, and she says: "That's the Apollo Belvedere, is it?" "Yes." "Well, give me Jones." —Helena Independence.
